To Whom It May Concern:

English Partnerships are delighted to see work starting on the 600,000sq.ft first phase of London's new Exhibition Centre in the Royal Docks. This is a key regeneration project in East London. Michael Beaman worked in the Royal Docks as an interim manager for 9 months following the closure of the LDDC until the arrival of the permanent English Partnerships team. He played a central key role in resolving problems and negotiating the terms for this development to ensure that it went ahead on a basis satisfactory both to English Partnerships and to the developers.

Yours sincerely
